Desks

Working alone, in small companies or according to the type of task performed is still a reality in companies, despite all the evolution in the working method concepts. With L.System, we offer the necessary solutions for this type of people and answer their functional and aesthetic needs.

Workstations

The L.System has in its range a vast offer regarding equipment for open spaces in companies. These solutions have been developed with people's different needs in mind: need for concentration or communication; need for local storage at the workplace; need for acoustic and visual separation between workstations; but always taking into account the final result in the aesthetic aspect, in order to create a work environment where any worker is pleased to be.

Executive

The need for management, people guidance, leadership and decision-making means that most organizations need isolated workspaces for their top managers, due to the characteristics of their jobs. Once again, L.System answers with a series of solutions for these spaces.

Meeting

We offer small meeting tables designed to improve the workspaces of managers and administrators, or even for small workgroups, which are easily integrated both in closed and open spaces. In addition, L.System also has a collection of meeting tables of several dimensions and materials, which facilitate the equipment choice for meeting spaces in companies with different cultures and structures.

Workstations with partitions

Our SISTEMA collection of folding screens has recently undergone a restyling, which has allowed to develop a series of solutions that integrate these separation items in the L.System workstations. These solutions create more private environments, where concentration and acoustics are the main focus. The workstations can be standard in an open space or we can create specific sectors and offices in that area, for those who have to deal with certain kinds of tasks and decisions.
